Daily Times

Daily Times

Daily Times is one of the leading independent Newspaper in Pakistan today, publishing since 2004 and utilizing a growing corps of writers and researchers from Pakistan, regional countries as well as from elsewhere in the world. At present, our coverage focuses primarily on qualitative analyses of news though other supranational topics are covered too.

Edited by renowned journalist Mr. Najam Sethi and backed by a strong editorial team, our richly-varied readership includes members of the diplomatic and non-governmental sectors, the security services, the business world as well as general readers.

These readers have come to value our content for its accuracy and insights- qualities which enhance the decision-making process and information-gathering activities of those having a professional relationship with the region.

Indeed, Daily Times has become one of the premier sources of independent, objective open-source information on Pakistan available online today. Our online presence provides a unique and vital range of information in these fields, gleaned both from open sources and our own sources in the field.

Since 2004, Daily Times has published extensively on politics, economics, security issues, travel, history and culture in Pakistan and selections from the world press.

Finally, our fine range of corporate and entertainment magazines like BOSS, Sunday Magazine and Splash give us an edge in the market competition and have made us proud.
